0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Now in an entirely updated third edition By Midwest Book Review Now in an entirely updated third edition, "The Essential Reference Of Domestic Brewers And The Bottled Brands" is a superbly organized professional reference that is divided into seven major sections: an alphabetically arranged lists of breweries; comparison charts of color and bitterness; a beer style index of beer brands; 'Availability by State Charts'; a geographic brewery listing including state commentary; 'How Supplied Charts'; and a comprehensive listing of brewery brand portfolios. An essential resource for academic and professional reference collections, "The Essential Reference Of Domestic Brewers And The Bottled Brands" will also prove to be an invaluable and strongly recommended addition to the collections of beer, ale, and lager enthusiasts who seek to explore all the brewery offerings in their particular state or in other defined regions of the country. For example, in Wisconsin beginning with Angry Minnow Brewing in Hayward and finishing with the William Kuether Brewing Company of Clear Lake.

Whether you're an over-the-top beer enthusiast, a retailer, a distributor, a restaurant, or bar, The Essential Reference of Domestic Brewers and Their Bottled Brands (DBBB) is an indispensable resource. DBBB is a beautiful hardcover annual edition offering more than 550 pages that detail more than 400 brewers and 3,000 of their brands. The book will remain up-to-date because readers also get access to the book's Online Companion (updated monthly). The DBBB contains state-by-state availability charts for each brewery; brand listings grouped by beer style; color and bitterness comparison charts; individual brand SRM (color) and IBU (bitterness) information; brewery listings by geographic location; brand-by-brand "How Supplied" information listing availability of can, bottle, and keg sizes; in-depth brewery portfolios printable as shelf talkers; alphabetic brewery listings; plus a Foreword from August Busch IV.
