Stefani Jackenthal : Wanderlust Wining: The Outdoorsy Oenophile's Wine Country Companion before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Wanderlust Wining: The Outdoorsy Oenophile's Wine Country Companion:

2 of 3 people found the following review helpful. Great SippingBy mitchell93I've been lucky to take Stefani's wine tasting classes since 2007. Her knowledge of wine is unmatched. She makes drinking it fun and exciting. I just started flipping through the book, while sipping. It is a must read for anyone who loves the greatest things life has to offer adventure and wine. Order copy. Put it in your backpack, so you can read it while you are sipping a nice Cointreau, while unwinding from a canoe trip.

Written by one of the world's foremost wine and travel experts Wanderlust Wining is a fun delicious journey through many of America's finest wine countries; exploring their outdoor activities and wine tasting specialties. It's a one-stop-read to crafting active wine tasting trips in unique (and familiar) wine countries all over the United States. Discover how to kick off mornings with action-packed activities and spend the remainder of the day sniffing, swirling and sipping through local wineries. Learn how to taste wine like a pro and be in the local know about the best hiking and mountain biking trails or places to paddle, surf and sail. Visit creameries, galleries or savor a sustainable wine dinner served in the middle of a vineyard. Each fast-paced, easy-to-understand chapter offers light-handed wine education and historic facts about the area's wines, local parks and sports outfitter, must-go restaurants, art galleries, markets, vineyards, and more.

Only a dedicated wine and outdoor adventurer could combine her passions the way Jackenthal has in this book, but if the idea of a perfect day for you involves spending active hours outside and then watching the sunset while tasting a rich glass of wine, made from the very landscape you enjoyed playing in, then this is the book for you! --Lucy Danziger, Editor-in-Chief at Self Magazine More and more people are looking for places where they can be active outside all day and then enjoy good wine and food. Stefani's guide is the ultimate resource. Nobody knows the two better than she does. --Janet Lee, Deputy Editor, Shape magazine I've had the pleasure of both riding and imbibing with Stefani. She's passionate, intelligent, and insanely well-versed in her varietals and blends. This brilliant book delivers the goods like none other on where to play and take large gulps of life in the most beautiful places the country has to offer. --Selene Yeager, The Fit Chick at Bicycling Magazine Timing has never been better for Wanderlust Wining. People today are looking for a combination of outdoor experiences, food, wine and adventure more than ever and most of the time it is in our own back yard or state. You don't need to get on a plane and go abroad it is right here. --John Conover, Partner-General Manager at PlumJack Winery CADE Estate Stefani's passion for outdoor adventure and wine is contagious! But luckily for readers she's not only enthusiastic, she's extremely knowledgeable on the topics, as well. --Andrea Minarcek, Senior Editor at Budget Travel magazine About the Author Stefani Jackenthal is an adventure journalist for print, TV, and radio and an elite international endurance racer.
